UNDERSTANDING AND ASSESSING THE MARITIME LABOUR CONVENTION

This training focuses on the general requirements of Maritime Labour Convention (MLC) 2006, as amended. Often referred to as the Seafarers' Bill of Rights, this International Labour Organization (ILO) Convention takes into consideration the global nature of shipping and calls for the special protection of seafarers.

The training contains practical guidelines for implementing and determining compliance with the requirements of the Convention. The course also covers the measures taken by the U.S Coast Guard to ensure compliance with the Convention for U.S flagged vessels in foreign ports.

This training is offered as a one-day overview and two-day auditor format. Each format highlights measures put in place to ensure decent work for seafarers. This includes employment conditions, minimum requirements for seafarers to work on ships and the responsibilities of Flag States, ship owners and Port State Controls to ensure compliance with these minimum requirements provided in the Convention. Those opting for the two-day auditor format will additionally receive training in the principles of auditing.
